Pasteltoys is a unique toy-making factory, located in the collective village of Kishorit in Israel's Galilean Hills. Pasteltoys employs members of Kishorit who are adults with special needs. The toys designed and made at Pasteltoys are imbued with the values of this special village: innocence, wholesomeness, simplicity, cooperative effort, and compassion. The toys are made entirely of wood, and are kept to an uncompromising standard of quality. All bear the stamp of approval of Israel's Standards Institute.

About our special toys: The toys made by Pasteltoys stand out for being like the toys of yesteryear; in this, they are unique among the toys on today's shelves. Their simple, naïve design and pastel colors project harmony, serenity, and comfort. The toys arouse a sense of nostalgia in the parents and grandparents who buy them for today's children, and this adds to the value inherent purchasing our toys that is, the participation in and contribution to a significant social effort.

The variety of toys created at Pasteltoys is broad, and includes innovative walking aids and doll carriages, little animals with wheels, classic building blocks, hobby-horses, and mobiles

The members' interaction with the professionals contributes to their rehabilitation, improving their self-esteem. Kishorit members have the same rights and obligations as do the rest of the employees: they are expected to be diligent, persistent, and committed to coming to work every day, on time.
